Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.

WASHINGTON, July 24, 1852. The problem of the Sphynx was not more per-plexing to the Theban than is the question with political tricksters as to what shall be the most effective means of casting dishonor upon the renown of the Whig nomince. And until some Œdipus shall arise to solve it, we may anticipate the same army of theories and troops of error which always figure prominently in every similar combination.

There is something so singularly distinguished in the life and services of General Winfield Scott, that it excites no wonder or astonishment at such a manifestation.

It is more luminous than splendor, more potent than potency, in its warmth, and in its pen trating power to communicate the attraction it ses to others.

This power will fire the whole country with enthusiasm, and achieve unequalled success by its appeal to the intelligence of its population in November next.

The strength often attributed to the individual man is not in himself, but in the current which bears him onward.

Hence, in the soi disant Democracy of this day, a man is but its instrument, sometimes its idol. and oftener its victim.

Its stars never light but a few paces in advance: they neither wish nor desire more lustre: their ambition is to wait; and the eloquence of their characters is most effective in silence.

They serve their party like the tempest serves ocean-to lash its waves into foam and sport with its fury.

In such revolutions as this, some wave often sweeps them to the position where it found them. And this will be regarded as prophetic wisdom by our Democratic brothren in November One of the crimes which the Romans decreed worthy of capital punishment, was abasing the majesty of the people. Are we less intelligent than the Romans? We turn with a peculiar pleasure to the Whig candidate for the suffrages of American freemen.

We respond to the nomination of a man who will be, in all respects, the full statuary, not the mere chisel of an American President. We believe that right and truth have their epochs, and that the response to these are waitng on the ides of November next. We feel glad that the hour hastens when brilliant reparation may be made for the injuries and ingratitude heretofore manifested in regard to Gen. Scott. It is demanded by the century in which we live-it is demanded by that strong sense of justice which an enlightenment of the public mind has aroused from its slumbers-it is demanded by his services in peace and in war, by the blood which he shed for his country, and by the unequalled lustre which he has brought upon her

We fear not the attempts to defame such a man; they are "high, far shining, empty"-his own reputation stands self-vindicated.

is no Perseus, but, Pontus Æmilius like, feels his country's interest as his highest glory, whether in winning her battles, repelling her foes, enjoying the laurels of his well-earned fame, or writhing under the stigma of her base ingrati

Called by an enlightened public opinion, and ratified by a Convention of the Whig party, the great conservative party of the Union, as their candidate for the Presidency, he will receive, under the ægis of liberty's canopy, demonstrations of applause which kings would be denied with their sceptres.

And with pride and with hope we look to him as the constant and germinous light to reflect harmony upon our whole political sphere, and to repel every remote design to produce distraction to the country or the party to which he belongs. And whilst we can readily discover a difference between the labors of Hercules and Jason to attain an identical object, we can perceive nothing in the character of our nominee to make him less than a truly national President, because every discordant element shall be harmonized, and every caste and sect and creed shall be set aside, and the whole country shall support him as the true exponent of our political faith and action. "Patriots, wise men, think all of little moment, so it be but done." HAMPDEN

Gen. Pierce on the Fugitive Slave Law. The reports of Gen. Pierce's remarks in January last, at New Boston, in reference to the fugitive slave law-to the effect, that he loathed it. that he had a most recolling "feeling at giving up a slave; that the law is opposed to humanity, and that it is opposed to moral right"—which were published Washington Republic, and called out the card of Messrs. Norris, Hibbard, and Peaslee, stigmatizing the Concord Independent Demograt and the Manchester Democrat, from which the extract was made by the Republic, as "vindic-tive and mendacious," is made the subject of an editorial in the last number of the Independent Democrat, in which, among other things, it is

"We have received a large number of letters from Southern men, during the last fortnight, asking information in regard to this matter. We take this occasion to say, to one and all, that the language attributed to Gen. Pierce above was spoken by him precisely as reported. This language was not only used at New Boston, but also at Bradford, and other places in this State. Of this the proof is abundant, and will be forthcoming, in a shape to defy cavil or denial.

The supporters of General Pierce at the North are painfully sensitive to any report, true or false, which is believed to be injurious to his reputation as a Presidential candidate at the South, and do not hesitate to brand as falsehoods declarations attested to be true by a large number of auditors, the report of which has remained uncontradicted before the public for many months, and which would be uncontradicted now if it was not thought to militate against the popularity of their candidate south of Mason and Dixon's line.

The Independent Democrat is a Freesoil paper, having no more sympathy with the Whigs than with their opponents, and would do as much probably to defeat General Scott as Gen. Pierce; out the editor is not disposed to stand idly by during this whitewashing of the Democratic candidate, especially when it is done by branding the Democrat and an associate press as "vindie tive and mendacious." He warns the Democratic candidate not to involve himself in an issue of He warns the Democratic veracity, where the latter will inevitably be worsted; for there is an array of unimpeachable witnesses to the declarations made, not only at New Boston, but at other places, time and again. " As is very generally known, our village has fissures in the underlying strata of rock. The supply, however, has hitherto proved insufficient for the demand. On Thursday afternoon last, while a workman was engaged in drilling for a further supply of water in the well at the Johnie, a fissure was reached, from which, on the withdrawal of the drill, a large and constant current of gas issued with much force through Upon placing a funnel over the jet and applying a candle, the gas ignited, throwing a colum of flame to the top of the well, near twenty feet, and burning the man severely. Up to the present time the gas continues to issue unfailingly, and it is the intention of the proprietors of the hotel to apply it to immediate use in lighting their building.

THE WHIG PLATFORM.

The Whigs of the United States, in Convention assembled, firmly adhering to the great conserva-tive republican principles by which they are controlled and governed, and now, as ever, relying upon the intelligence of the American people, with an abiding confidence in their capacity for self-government and their continued devotion to the constitution and the Union, do proclaim the following as the political sentiments and determina-tions for the establishment and maintenance of tions which their national organization as a party is effected: 1. The government of the United States is of a limited character, and it is confined to the exercise of powers expressly granted by the constitution, and such as may be necessary and proper for carrying the granted powers into full execu-tion; and that all powers not thus granted or necessarily implied are expressly reserved to the States, respectively, and to the people.

2. The State governments should be held se cure in their reserved rights, and the general government sustained in its constitutional powers, and the Union should be revered and watched over as "the palladium of our liberties." 3. That, while struggling freedom everywhere enlists the warmest sympathy of the Whig party, we still adhere to the doctrines of the Father of his Country, as announced in his Farewell Address, of keeping ourselves free from all entangling alliances with foreign countries, and of never quitting our own to stand upon foreign That our mission as a republic is not to propagate our opinions, or impose on other countries our form of government by artifice or force, but to teach by example, and show, by our suc-cess, moderation, and justice, the blessings of self-government and the advantages of free institutions

4. That where the people make and control the government, they should obey its constitution, laws, and treatics, as they would retain their selfrespect and the respect which they claim and will enforce from foreign powers.

5. Government should be conducted upon principles of the strictest economy, and revenue sufficient for the expenses thereof, in time of peace, ought to be mainly derived from a duty on imports, and not from direct taxes; and in levying meh duties, sound policy requires a just discrimi nation, and protection from fraud by specific duties when practicable, whereby suitable encouragement may be assured to American industry, equally to all classes and to all portions of the

6. The constitution vests in Congress the power open and repair harbors, and remove obstructions from navigable rivers; and it is expedient that Congress should exercise that power, whenever such improvements are necessary for the common defence, or for the protection and facility of commerce with foreign nations or among the States; such improvements being, in every in-stance, national and general in their character.

7. The federal and State governments are parts of one system, alike necessary for the common prosperity, peace, and security, and ought to be regarded alike with a cordial, habitaal, and immovable attachment. Respect for the authority of each, and acquiescence in the constitutional measures of each, are duties required by the plainest considerations of national, of State and of individual welfare.

8. The series of acts of the S1st Congress commonly known as the Compromise or Adjustment (the act for the recovery of fugitives from labor included) are received and acquiesced in by the Whigs of the United States as a final settlement, in principle and substance, of the subjects to which they relate; and, so far as these acts are concerned, we will maintain them, and insist on their strict enforcement, until time and experience shall demonstrate the necessity of further legislation, to guard against the evasion of the laws on the one hand, and the abuse of their powers on the other-not impairing their present efficiency to carry out the requirements of the constitution; and we deprecate all further agitation of the questions thus settled, as dangerous to our peace, and will discountenance all efforts to continue or renew such agitation, whenever, wherever, or however made : and we will maintain this settlement as essential to the nationality of the Whig party and the integrity of the Union.

In 1812 he fought the battle of Quee astown In 1813 he was the instrument of saving our Irish citizens, taken in arms against the British, from the savage penalties of the English law of constructive treason. In the same year he fought, as Colone, in the battle of Fort George. In 1814 he made a new army and restored the military spirit of the country—took Fort Erie—fought the battle of Chippewa—and fought the ood fight of Lundy's Lane. In 1832 he won the proud title of the "Hero of Humanity," by nursing the sick and dying troops of his army, upon which the Asiatic cholera fell blightingly, on its march to the field of

In the same year, by negotiation, and not by force of arms, he brought the Black Hawk war to a just and favorable issue.

In the same year he soothed the spirit of Southern Nullification, and saved our country from

In 1836 he served against the Seminole Indians In 1837, with admirable energy and tact, and without troops, he calmed the patriot disturbances upon our extended Northern frontier. In the same year he effected the removal of the Cherokees, in a manner that won the gratitude of the noble tribe and the admiration of his whole country.

In 1839 he earned the distinguished title "The Pacificator of the Northeastern Boundary," and saved his country from a bloody and wastefal war with Great Britain.

In 1847 he opened the splendid military drama of the second conquest of Mexico, by reducing the city of Vera Cruz and the impregnable Castle of San Juan d'Ulloa after an active siege of but four days.

April the 8th, he fought and won the admirable battle of Cerro Gordo, and opened to the Americans the path to the dominion of the entire Western Continent On the 19th of April he entered the city of Jalapa.

On the 22d of April, he occupied Perote On the 15th of May, he took Puebla. On the 20th of August, he won the three great victories of Contreras, San Antonio, and Churu-On the 8th of September, he fought and won the brilliant battle of Molino del Rey. On the 13th of September, he carried by storm the terrible Heights and Fortress of Chepultepec -scattered the Mexican army from the gates of Belen and Sar Cosume, and made a lodgment in the capital of Mexico. ## Who is Franklin Pierce !- What has He Franklin Pierce was born in 1804, at Hillsborough, N. H., and graduated at Bowdoin College, Maine—studied law, and commenced practice in Hillsborough county. He was elected to the legislature of his State, and shortly after chosen speaker of the House. In 1834 he was elected to the lower House of Congress, in which body he served until 1838, at which period he became a Senator of the United States, and served till 1842-3. He resigned his seat in the Senate and returned to the practice of law in 1843.

In 1845 he was nominated for governor of the State, but declined. President Polk offered him the Attorney Generalship, which he also declined. In 1848 he was appointed a Colonel in the ten regiments raised for the service of the United States in Mexico. Subsequently, he was made Brigadier General. He performed no achievement of note during the war, nor has he ever done so in any position, civil or military.

Protection from Lightning.

Protection from Lightning.

The undersigned, being the duly appointed Agent of Seratt's Electrican and Electro-Metallucions Lugarian (No-Rom Manufactorar, Covington, Kentucky, begs to offer these superior Rods, of Spiral-twisted, Carbonized Annealed Iron, with Zinc Protectors, and Electro-positive elements combined in their manufacture; thus rendering them equal to copper as conductors. They are in ten-feet lengths, with securately-fitted brass-screw connecting joints, an entire new style of metallic (patented) attachments, for brick or frame buildings; also, glass loolaters, of a novel and ingenious construction, (patented,) forming a lock; the whole mounted with a solid platinum silver point, (patented,) twelve inches long, surrounded at the base with three angular negative magnets, which possess the power, to an extraordinary extent, of discharging the opposite elements of the most fearful thunderstorm, and embrace the critic perfection of science up to the present time; the whole constituting the most magnificent and perfect silent conductor ever presented to the public.

Safety has not been compromised by affording these excellent rods at such low rates; the greatest attention has been given to their construction, so as to be readily attached. The astonishing power of the negative magnets, in discharging the air of its opposite elements, has been clearly demonstrated by the Electrometer, when unmagnetized points have shown but slight results, though placed under the same conditions. In fact, they gather and sliently discharge electricity from the atmosphere when you would scarcely suspect any heing present.

These improvements being secured by double letters pa-electricity from the atmosphere when you suspect any being present. These improvements being secured by double letters patent, you are hereby cautioned against laying yourselves liable, by purchasing of those who are not authorized, or who are substituting inferior imitations. All agents duly appointed can show their certificates. Have good rods or none.

CHARLES W. HEYDON.
Washington City.

I do hereby certify that I have app lied various powerful chemical re-agents to Spratt's Patent Points for Lightning-Rods, and that the results of these experiments convince me that they will resist the action of atmospheric causes, and thereby preserve the extremity sharp—a condition most essential to protection against lightning. The reagents used in the above experiments were a solution of chloride of sodium, (common sait,) seetle acid, sulphuric acid, and hydrochloric acid. With the first, there was no action on the metal; with the several acids, there was very slight—a fact sufficient to show that atmospheric influences would have no sensible effect.

stended. Yours, truly, Prof. ROBT. PETER.
LEXINGTON, KY., February 20, 1850.

Lexingron, Ky., February 20, 1850.

Cincago, September 3, 1850.

This may certify that I have examined, somewhat critically, James Spratt's Patent Lightning Rods, and that I am of opinion that it is constructed on scientific principles. For combining durability, chespness, and efficacy, I deem it equal, and I think superior, to any other rod ever offered for my inspection.

Augusta, (Ga.) November 11, 1850.

This will certify that I have examined the Lightning Rods, Metallic Points, and Isolating Attachments, manufactured by Mr. Spratt, and regard them as constructed in conformity to the general laws of the electric fluid; and the metallic compound constituting the Points, as promising, from the result of several tests to which they were submitted, to resist for years the action of those atmospheric causes

Pharm., Medical College, Ga.

The Lightning Conductors put up by Mr. Henry M. Smith, of this city, on the plan of Mr. Spratt, appear to me to be very well devised; and, in point of mechanical construction, are the best 1 have ever seen.

It is to be hoped that the use of these Rods may become general, as an important auxiliary defence against a danger which must be regarded as of no ordinary magnitude, which all buildings are liable.
